

It is not uncommon to see shows that only contain 'good' episodes, some with multiple seasons. Any episode with a rating higher than the average episode rating (8.06) is considered a 'good' episode in this case.

Top 250 TV Shows

Shows With Only "Good" Episodes

Only 1 show has more than 10 seasons and a Series Finale Rating higher than 9.0 (Trailer Park Boys - Orange). The 3 blue points with a Finale Episode Rating less than 5.0 are explained further in the graph to the right.

Series Finale Episode Ratings

These 3 very popular shows all had a horribly rated final season relative to previous seasons, largely due to the very low Finale Episode Ratings (blue points in plot to the left) that left viewers wanting more.

Shows with More Than 5 Seasons That Fell Off a Cliff

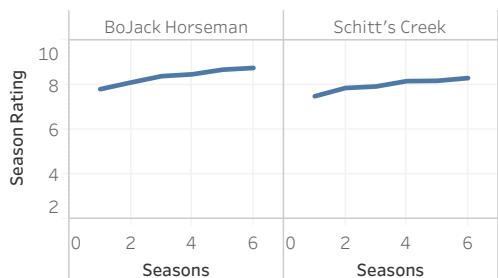

Some Series have a large difference between their Overall Series Rating and their Avg Episode Rating. The 'Gap' measurement represents that difference. The 'Gap' is defined as the Overall Series Rating - Average Episode Rating. The series with the largest Gap on each end of the spectrum are labeled below.

Gap Between Overall Series Rating and Average Episode Rating

Only 2 shows have more than 5 seasons with each season rated higher than the previous one.

Shows with More Than 5 Seasons That Keep Getting Better

Data Source: Kaggle